SURCHARGES.

of one country are over-printed with the name of another, revenue stamps are over-printed postage, while in some cases we find them initialed or signed by the Postmaster-General.

Stamps may be over-printed to prevent fraud on the Government: it is claimed the stamps of Cuba were thus printed owing to the large number that were stolen during the revolution. France, with the French Colonies, probably heads the list with surcharges, Germany, with German Colonies; Great Britain, with British Bechuanaland, Cyprus and Turkish offices, &c. Indian stamps are surcharged for the various Indian Free States. Spain used an ornamental design surcharge in order to confine the use of those stamps to a certain colony.

Peru has used various surcharges: the portrait of General Bermudez, Arms, horseshoe etc. Surcharges may also be resorted to to hide an engraver's error, as in the case of Salvador.

Large numbers of countries over-print their regular issue of stamps with "Official", these stamps are used for government official purposes. Great Britian leads the list with official surcharges: we find stamps surcharged "I. R. Official" "Govt. Parcels", "O. W. Official", "Army Official", "R. H. Official", "Board of Education" and "Admiralty Official." These stamps, owing to some having been misused or stolen, have been discontinued.

There are probably as many, if not more, forgeries of surcharges than forgeries of stamps. Not only are these forgeries used to deceive the unaware collector, but also the Governments. The latest and probably the most extensive under this heading are the forgeries on the stamps of the Transvaal, surcharged V. R. I. and E. R. I. To such an extent were the forgeries committed that the Postal Authorities of the Transvaal has decided to withcall up to a

The United States of America.-- We understand that official notice has appeared in American papers to the effect that a new series of postage stamps are to be issued. The most notable feature of the new stamps will be that contrary to all precedents they will, with one exception, bear the portrait of Washington. The one exception will have the portrait of Franklin.

Canada.-- We are informed that a new 50c. stamp, King's Head, purple, is to be issued shortly.

We have received from Chas. Mendel, Paris, France, a copy of the Stamps of L'Uraguay, containing over 120 illustrations.

In the British Philatelist is running an interesting article on the line-engraved stamps of Great Britain. The publishers, Messrs. Chas. Nissen & Co. are to be congratulated on the valuable information placed before their readers.

How many varieties of the 1d. red of Great Britain 1841 imperforated have you in your collection. We notice an English firm is advertising some thirty nine distinct varieties of this stamp, ranging in price from one penny to twenty shillings each. Our advice is study your stamps and see what you really have.

British Stamps used Abroad.

How many stamp collectors, young or old, are aware that in the early days of stamps, that is to say about 1857, British stamps were used abroad in the Colonies; and if aware, how many are able to pick out those stamps, and to tell to which colony, or in what part of the world the stamps belong, for they were used in South and Central America as well

In order to throw some light on this subject it is necessary to make a study of postmarks for by this alone are we able to tell where the stamps were used. The early postmarks consisted of initials, which later was preceeded by a letter, as a05, and as these numbers were allotted as the new offices were opened, it is plain to see that one might be in England while the next is in some far distant part of the world.

Previous to this and in some cases even up to 1860 letters from British Colonies were prepaid in money, the name
